

My Present to You

You've been expecting great things from me, it's true.
And let me say, I would just love to please you.
I had every intention of giving you great presents,
But I must let you know, I have in my pocket only a few cents.

With all that said and done, let's be realistic;
The life of a college student is nothing more than simplistic.
I have nothing more than a few dollars to my name,
And that is something that brings me great shame.

A life with APS is nothing grand;
I'm sure that's something you understand.
With kids in TIPS, I'm pulling out my hair!
(I hope you have enough love for me to care.)

Now I hope you might find it in yourself to understand;
I wasn't able to get the best brand.
I couldn't even find something nice in place of this crap!
I'm sorry to say; this is what you have to unwrap...
